Hungry
for information

The National Restaurant Association can satisfy your appetite for restaurant-industry knowledge, news and data.

No question is too difficult

Our job is to play detective for you, so don't be afraid to ask questions that make us think outside the box.

Our Information Services and Library provides research and reference assistance exclusively to National Restaurant Association members. Whether you're looking for information on starting a restaurant, suppliers or operational data, we can help.

Our 3,000-book collection covers a range of restaurant-related topics, including:

- Running a business
- Controlling costs
- Reference manuals
- Cookbooks

Or, the answer might be in one of our other resources, such as:

- Government documents
- LexisNexis, an extensive online news database
- A 50,000-file archive of restaurant-related articles from trade and mainstream press

Save time with personalized, targeted searches

No time to search the Internet for information on turnover, salaries or trends? No problem. Just call our toll-free number or e-mail us, and one of our professional librarians will be happy to find the answer to your questions.

If you call Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. EST, you'll always reach one of us. We answer most questions within 24 hours, and often much quicker. Complicated questions or projects sometimes require a little more time. We can mail, fax or e-mail answers and photocopies of printed material.

Call today. It's free!

It's easy to take advantage of this exclusive benefit, free to National Restaurant Association members. Just send questions to askus@restaurant.org, or call (800) 424-5156, ext. 5959. We encourage NRA members to use this service as much as possible; you won't get this personal attention anywhere else.
